

EDPY 565: Psychopharmacology

A study of current topics and recent developments in the biochemical basis of psychopathology and related strategies of psychopharmacological interventions for the treatment of mental disorders. Students will be able to identify the mechanism and actions of commonly used psychoactive drugs and explore the therapeutic use of drugs for the treatment of mental disorders.

Credits: 3

Program: Psychology